

CRISIS IS REACHED IN THE RELATIONS BETWEEN GERMANY AND U. S.

Berlin, July 9.—Germany's reply to the American note on submarine warfare was delivered to James W. Gerard, the American ambassador, late last night.

The note now is being translated. Certain paragraphs embodying its principal features already have been dispatched to Washington, but the final sections probably will not be on the wire for transmission before a late hour this afternoon. This is because the note is of considerable length.

The text of the note will be withheld meanwhile from the newspaper correspondents, and permission for transmission of summaries of it also is withheld. This is done to give the official version the right of way.

WOMEN ARE SNUBBED BY WILLIAM J. BRYAN

San Francisco, Ca., July 9.—Delegates to the National Convention of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage today were discussing the refusal of William Jennings Bryan to aid in obtaining endorsements of their suffrage amendment to the federal constitution. A committee from the union called on Mr. Bryan and asked him to speak to the delegates favorably concerning the proposed amendment. In replying to the committee Mr. Bryan said:

"I would never speak for your organization. I would never move an inch to speak for any body of women that opposed the Democratic party. The democratic party at the expense of labor clothes.

and tribulation of spirit, has taken up and solved the two paramount issues before the country—tariffs and currency reform—and any body of women opposing a party which makes such a record has not my support."

ED INCE CHARGED WITH IMPERSONATE OFFICER

Atlanta, Ga., July 9.—E. S. Ince, of Dothan, Ala., yesterday pleaded guilty to the charge of falsely impersonating a United States officer and was sentenced to a year and a day in the federal prison by Judge Newman. He had been sought since March 11, 1914, when he jumped his bond and disappeared.

WILLIAMS & CO. HAVE A STRAW HAT SHOWER

Williams and Company hit upon a novel advertising scheme this morning and threw over a hundred hats from the top of their store to the street this morning.

Once a year this store has a clearance sale and the public are usually treated to a great many bargains in men and boys wear. In addition to this they are treated to many new innovations in the advertising line; in front of the store is a large block of ice with straw hats frozen inside. There is a premium for guessing at what time the ice will melt from around the hat, so it might pay to go around and look at it.

Business is always good around this store as it is a favorite spot for the boys who like good clothes.

HOUSTON LOSES BY CATTLE TICK

Experts From Auburn Discuss Various Phases of Live Stock Industry at Court House Today.

Questions relating to the live stock business, including cattle tick eradication, the selection of breed stock, and other interesting phases of this much neglected industry in Southeast Alabama were discussed by Auburn experts at the county court house this morning to a large number of farmers and others interested.

It is the opinion of Dr. Meadows that this county loses something like $14,000 yearly on account of the cattle tick, which he says may be eradicated at a cost of 50 cents for each infected animal treated. He said that the county was losing 13 or 15 per cent of cattle on account of cattle tick fever. Hides of cattle infected with the cattle tick sell for 2 to 3 cents per pound less than healthy hides.

The selection of hogs, cattle, or other animals for breed stock, was discussed by Dr. Templeton, who urged that hogs selected for breeding purposes be strong in the feet and legs, full chested with good lungs, and that they also have strong backs, as well as other characteristics which he mentioned.

Those present manifested a great deal of interest in the talks, which were highly instructive along the different lines discussed.

The party from Auburn included I. S. McAdory, Prof. Templeton, Dr. Meadows, and Mr. Boyd, all experts in their respective subjects.

TRAIN HELD UP BY MASKED MEN

Montgomery, Ala., July 10—Four masked men held up the New York and New Orleans Limited train four miles south of Greenville about 1:30 o'clock this morning, detached the mail and baggage cars, looted them and at 4 o'clock this morning apparently have made good their escape.

Conductor Phil McKee of this city was found dead on the platform of the observation car, and it is stated that the veteran railroad man died of heart failure. No member of the train crew was hurt, and none of the passengers molested.

According to passengers the masked men boarded the train on the dark side as it pulled out of Greenville. Two of the men climbed on the rear end of the baggage car, and two others climbed on the engine tender. At a point about four miles south of Greenville, Engineer Arthur Ansley of this city, was ordered at the point of a gun to stop his train.

WHITE MAN IN COUNTY JAIL; KILLED NEGRO

Marshall Blanchet, White, Who Killed Will Tarver, Negro, Has Not Made $1,000 Bond.

Marshall Blanchet, a white man, who killed Will Tarver, a negro, in the vicinity of Conger's turpentine still, near Gordon, is being held in the county jail, the prisoner having failed to make $1,000 bond.

The preliminary hearing was conducted before Justice of the Peace John T. Brown, at Ardilla, at which time the man was allowed $1,000 bond, which he failed to make.

The testimony at the hearing, according to information from the Sheriff's office, was in some phases contradictory. The evidence of certain witnesses showed that Marshall Blanchet, the white man, invited the negro to his house, and about the time he arrived poked a shot gun out of Blanchet's story was that he had forbidden the negro, Tarver, to come to his house, but that he disobeyed these instructions, and after he (Blanchet) had locked the door, the negro got an axe and was attempting to gain an entrance, when Blanchet fired.

Testimony showed that Blanchet reached his own home shortly before the arrival of the negro.

PROGRESS

Experience in motor car manufacturing teaches that eternal caution is the price of success. Expediency walks constantly at the elbow of every maker of motor cars, whispering "Do this!" or "Do that!" and he is wise and fortunate who turns a deaf ear to all save performance that is proven in service.

The motor car that exists on the draughtsman's drawing board or in the designer's fancy may prove a fragile delusion in the rough hands of Mr. Average User. Blueprints are beautiful and alluring and inventors are often persuasive. Looking at the car or listening to the other, the motor car manufacturer must forever keep in mind the great fact that rain and hills and rough roads are relentless, and that imperious back of the steering wheel constitutes a factor that must be met with the closest of reckoning.

Progress in motor car building is not progress unless it is of proven worth. The next step is unsafe until the last step is of established wisdom. Past performance is surely more important than future promise.

Two years ago Buick Sixes were placed upon the motor market. At that time we knew the Six was right in theory, and our exhaustive tests convinced us it was right in fact. Now we know it is right, not only in theory and test, but in actual service. We had faith in Buick designers and engineers; but we have an even greater faith in Buick users. Service is the real test of a motor car and since the verdict of our users was overwhelming we now offer Sixes Exclusively.

How Cranks are Made.

New York World.

If we accept the theory that the man who placed a bomb in the capitol of the United States and attempted the life of Mr. Morgan is a crank, we are duty bound to inquire into the making of cranks.

The agitation here and in Germany against the traffic in munitions of war by Americans, which seems to have keyed this man to action, is in plain defiance of knowledge, law, right and precedent. Few men or women engaged in it need to be told that the protest is unwise, and dishonest, that it is grossly partisan, in that it is intended to give one belligerent an advantage which it has not been able to win with its arms, and that if the United States were to adopt the policy recommended it would amount to a violation of neutrality and would be so regarded by Germany's foes.

In New York as well as in Berlin the outcry against American shipments of arms and munitions has been maintained emotionally and with a pretense of humanity, but it has had no higher motive than the welfare of Germany. Sympathetic as many of our people are with that empire, they are not likely to develop mania on the subject. The crank gets his impulse from the lies, the hyperemias and the half-truths with which the propaganda is kept up.

If this question has been discussed everywhere upon its merits as a legal or historical proposition, the easily excited elements of our population would not have taken notice of it. Because it has been argued dishonestly, many hasty judgments have been formed, and perhaps some brains none too well balanced to begin with, have been turned. No fact ever yet mastered a crank. Cranks are bewildered and bedevilled by the evil imaginings which other people introduce into their distorted and egotistical minds.

So long as we remain free and independent, the industry and commerce of the United States in war or in peace are not to be regulated or suppressed by manufactured alien sentiment at home or aggressive self-interest abroad. Those in America who have undertaken this task, falsely claiming to be neutrals and advocates of peace, are in truth mischief makers, and we believe that most of them intend to be mischief makers. For the production of cranks such people must bear a continuing responsibility.

The crank rarely appears except as the stage is set for him. Truth does not often deprive a man of his wits. Our cranks are unhinged by people of more subtle minds, who, to advance a cause, resort sentimentally, if not deliberately, to falsehood.

Reports are coming in from all over the country of the ravages of hog cholera. Farmers should use the only sure preventive, the serum treatment, if they expect to have any meat to sell next winter.

It does really look like, after a careful reading of the proposed bills by the recess committees that enough will be raised to bring the state out of the hole and have some to spare during the present administration.

It doesn't matter what the investigating committee might have recommended it could not possibly suit some of the people who take it upon themselves to dictate their work.

Where Brain Work Begins, There Profit Begins.

Here is where we must work. Instead of selling our raw products as they are, we must add brain labor to muscular labor, and get two profits rather than one. We must turn our cotton seed and hay and cowpeas and forage crops into butter and cheese and mules and mutton, in the making and marketing of which we shall get out of competition with ignorant labor and enter the field where profit is at a bargain. We must also develop our fruit and trucking industries to the fullest extent. We must learn the value of co-operation in buying and selling. We must learn the power of organization in bringing things to pass. We must learn that the successful farmer like the lawyer or doctor, needs special training, special study, to fit him for his life work.—The Progressive Farmer.

SEVERE PUNISHMENT

Of Mrs. Chappell, of Five Years' Standing, Relieved by Cardui.

Mr. Alby, N. C.—Mrs. Sarah M. Chappell of this town says: "I suffered for five years with womanly troubles, also stomach troubles, and my punishment was more than any one could tell."

I tried most every kind of medicine, but none did me any good.

I read one day about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I decided to try it. I had not taken but about six bottles until I was almost cured. It did me more good than all the other medicines I had tried, put together.

My friends began asking me why I looked so well, and I told them about Cardui. Several are now taking it.

Do you, lady reader, suffer from any of the ailments due to womanly trouble, such as headache, backache, sideache, sleeplessness, and that everlasting tired feeling?

If so, let us urge you to give Cardui a trial. We feel confident it will help you, just as it has a million other women in the past half century.

Begin taking Cardui to-day. You won't regret it. All druggists.

"It's easy enough to be pleasant
When a man has all he requires;
If his health is all right
His heart will be light.

Tires."
—Mr. Sponges

A man is a good deal like a tire.
His greatness depends on the crowd he is in.

The really great man—the leader—literally has to meet all comers in the contest for public approval.
Any tire is the best tire in a crowd of inferior.

But nowadays a tire has to be extraordinary if it is to make and hold a record for superior service and mileage economy.

It is the extraordinary quality of Diamond
Tires that has given them their deserved preeminence.

Send for our book of letters from dealers who sold Diamond Tires in 1916.

It tells how more than 99 out of every 100 of the more than half a million Diamond Tires sold last year gave maximum service at minimum mileage cost.

It is yours for the asking.

The Rev. E. H. Jennings
On Catholicism

(Editorial Note: This article was sent to The Eagle with request to publish it, but as no reference was made to the series of sermons on Catholicism by Rev. E. H. Jennings outside his regular weekly announcement, not printing any part of them, we didn't feel it our duty to give so much space to a religious question which cannot be settled through newspaper controversy. However, some of the members of the Catholic church here wanted it printed, and proposed to have it done as advertising matter, that it might be put before the people here.—Editor.)

By Rev. Father J. P. McKey,
Of Opelika.

STRANGER TO LOGIC.

The "deep" student of history is as deep a student of logic. He asserts that Catholicism is but baptized paganism. Does he not realize whether his logic will lend him? All the Christian denominations of today have been cut, either immediately or mediately from Catholicism. "The Protestant church owes all that is best in it to the Catholic church." (Rev. A. M. Courtney, Methodist, Chillicothe, Ohio). "The Catholic church is the mother of all Protestant denominations." (Rev. J. S. Thompson, Protestant, Los Angeles, Cal.) "In Wycliffe's day there was only one church. The center and life and support of all was the Papacy." (John Lord, Protestant historian, in "Beacon Lights of History," Vol. V, pg 395.) "All other Christian denominations, however separate they may be from their parent stock, have their share in the Papacy as a part of the Christian heritage." (Rev. C. A. Briggs, Protestant, in North American Review, article on the Real and the Ideal in the Papacy.) "I love the Roman Catholic church because it is the old mother church. Our churches are all the offspring of that church." (Rev. R. F. Snell, Congregationalist, Winnetka, Ill., May 21, 1915.) Mr. Jennings' logic pushes him out to the end of a limb, and makes him saw away nearer the trunk. It pushes him to load with dynamite the foundations of his own Baptist creed. According to his own ministers' statements, his logic forces him to hold that the origin of his own creed was pagan.

Rome, he says, by repudiating the right of the individual to interpret the Bible for himself, repudiates the Bible. Then as a logical American citizen he will have to argue thus with himself: "America by refusing to the American citizen the right to interpret the Constitution for himself, repudiates the Constitution." "What nefarious doctrine is this?" Why, Mr. Jennings, it is anarchy. The Supreme Court is the only authoritative interpreter of the Constitution; and the Catholic argues that the church is the only authoritative interpreter of the Bible, and so guards the Bible from spiritual anarchy. You would give to the Constitution, which is easy to understand, a Supreme Court of interpretation; and you would take from the Bible, which is hard to understand, a Supreme Court of interpretation! The guardianship of our Constitution means salvation to our country; the guardianship of the Bible means salvation to our souls. The former is temporal; the latter eternal. Which, think you, more deserves such a Supreme Court?

Mr. Jennings again shows his lack of logic when he refuses to me what he says is the right of every individual. He tells me that I have the right to interpret the Bible for myself; and when I, after studying the Bible for two hours every day for the last thirteen years, after studying it in English, Latin, Greek or Hebrew for twenty years, after reading it daily for nearly forty years, when I interpret the Bible and get from my interpretation that Christ set up a living, supreme tribunal for the guardianship of the Bible's doctrines, he tells me that I have no right to interpret it in that way. But if he will not permit me to interpret it in the way I honestly think is correct, what has become of my right which he says that I, as well as every other individual, possess? If I cannot interpret it in my way, to whose way must I conform? Must I interpret it in the way that Mr. Jennings does? Must I? Then Mr. Jennings makes of himself a pope. But why must I follow his way in the interpretation of Bible passages rather than the ways of 40,000 other Baptist ministers in this country? They have just as much right to impose their ideas upon me as he has. If I must follow the interpretations of the 120,000 Protestant ministers of all the denominations? Then, they would all be popes. His logic calls me to submit to 120,000 popes, while I as a Catholic choose to submit but to one. Moreover, his logic calls me to submit to the impossible, because these 120,000 popes do not agree in their interpretations, while my pope agrees with himself and with every other pope for the last nineteen centuries. If every Catholic prefers the latter method, why should Mr. Jennings say him "Nay"?

Stranger to Scripture.

I should be afraid to say that the "deep" student has even a speaking acquaintance with Scripture. He says that neither ceremonies nor sacraments are necessary to salvation. I am not taking issue for him thinking so, but I am taking issue with him with the reason he adduces for thinking so. They are unnecessary, says he, because Paul said to the jailer, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." "That was all," adds Mr. Jennings. Was it all? By no means. Paul went thru some ceremonies with the jailer; Paul baptized him. (Acts 16-33) Said Jesus to Nicodemus, "Except a man be born again of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the Kingdom of God." (John 3-5) Again, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." (Mark 16-16). The Jews at Pentecost asked Peter what they should do; and his reply was "Repent and be baptized." (Acts 2-38). Can one be baptized without going through some ceremony?

He says that Rome changes the Bible to suit herself, and instances her changing "repentance" into "penance." Had he known anything about Scripture, he had not made that blunder. The Protestant Authorized Version has it, "Unless ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish." The Catholic, "Unless you shall do penance, etc." Does he not know that each translation is an effort to interpret the real meaning of the Greek "metanoete" ("changes one's purpose")? Does he not know that the Catholic interpretation ("Unless you change your purpose by turning your heart from sin and by showing in your actions this change of heart,"—all signified in the word, "poeniteamini," "penance") was in the Catholic Common Bible (the Vulgate of St. Jerome) where all that could read might read, eleven hundred years before there was a Protestant Bible? Had he known anything about Scripture, he had known that it was the Protestant Bible that changed "penance" into "repentance." I am not saying which is the better translation; but I am simply stating which church made the change. In any event, can one repent without doing penance? Is not the very resolve to forsake sin doing penance to the sinful will? The Catholic idea of repentance (showing in your actions that your heart has turned from sin to God) is held by St. Paul. He tells the Jews and Gentiles that "they should repent and turn to God, and do works meet for penance" (Acts 26-20). It is held by one of the foremost Baptist scholars in the country, the Rev. Madison C. Peters of New York City: "The Catholic church has been charged with putting too much stress on good works and not enough upon faith. Protestantism has swung to the other extreme, and not put enough stress on good works. Good works won't save; but faith without good works is dead. Our religion is too much talk. We have too many women's meetings, and not enough Sisters of Charity." (Lecture on "What Protestants Should Learn from Catholics.") And even if the Catholic church had changed the wording of the text, Mr. Jennings, as a Protestant, and could not logically quarrel with her. Did not Tyndale change "church" into "congregation" and "priest" into "elder"? (Green's History of England, Vol. II, pg. 133.—Collier & Sons, New York, 1900). Did not the last edition of the Baptist Bible eliminate the word "hell." Have not Protestant ministers acknowledged the mistakes and contradictions of their own Bible? Have they not labored to correct, to change them? In 1880 forty-seven chosen Scripture scholars, after having worked on the King James Version of the Bible, made almost 20,000 corrections; and about 10 per cent of these corrections were a return to the Catholic Douai Version. (Literary Digest, Feb. 3, 1914). In Appleton's Magazine for September, 1904, the Baptist Dr. Aked writes that the Protestant version of the Bible contains historical errors, inconsistencies, and contradictions. The Baptist minister, the Rev. Mr. Cheeseman of Mt. Carmel, Ill., says that the Bible is no more infallible than Thackeray, Dickens, or the book that you yourself might write. Evidently, Mr. Jennings does not know the history of his own Bible.

Stranger to Baptist Educational Ideas.

He tells us that the Catholic church makes war upon our public schools. It does not so. The only way that he could think it does so is because Catholics, whenever it is possible, build pe-ronment schools so that their children may be brought up in the atmosphere of religion. But that is just what the educated Baptists of the country are trying to do, and trying to induce other Protestant denominations to do. This may be news to Mr. Jennings, but he sadly needs to be informed upon his own creed. (The Baptist ministers of New York City, Brooklyn and New Jersey voted on January 19 to urge "all Protestant churches to copy the Roman Catholic plan of seeing that school children get religious instruction . . . A committee of Baptists was appointed to present the plan to other Protestant bodies" (New York Sun, Jan. 20). In Philadelphia at a meeting of the Baptist ministers, April 21, 1913 they agreed that the Bible in the class room was no effective antidote against irreligion and crime and that the constant influence of religious teachers was the only remedy. The Rev. William Calder said the time is fast coming when all denominations will see the necessity of establishing parochial schools (Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, April 21, 1913). Thus in educational ideas the Baptist church is striving to catch up with the Catholic church, but Mr. Jennings has not even caught up to the Baptist church and from present indications is not running very strong.

He solemnly avers that to Catholicize the people will be to make heathens and infidels of them. But his brother Baptist, the Rev C. L. Rhodes, secretary of the American Baptist Missionary Union, thinks differently of the Catholic church. "I have been severely criticized for saying that I think God that there has been a Roman Catholic church and that it has a branch in America. But I reiterate it rather than take it back. I again thank God for the Roman Catholic Church." The Baptist minister, Rev. Alfred Piccini of Winsted, Conn. who last January left the Baptist ministry and became a Catholic would hardly thank Mr. Jennings for saying that he had embraced paganism and infidelity. "I have found that peace and comfort," said he "that Protestantism is powerless to give." Lieutenant Spear, U. S. A., the Revs Joseph Keenan, P. G. Meuth, W. R. Rount W. H. Sloan, had all been Baptist ministers before they became Catholics. Does Mr. Jennings think that these men, his former conferees in the Baptist ministry would embrace paganism? In the last fifteen years in this country there have been about seventy-five Protestant ministers that have become Catholics. Can it be possible that these gentlemen have become infidels? Or rather as it not possible, probable and true that Mr. Jennings has given no study to the Catholic church, and knows nothing about it?
